Dr. Knight & Maryah

"You must've been a beautiful baby...'cause baby look at you now!"

My parents seized every opportunity to take baby pictures of me and my siblings. Whether toothless grins, ponytailed, naked bottoms, wide eyed, teary eyed, sticky faced, afro-ed, buzz cuts, , nehuru jacketed or as a bathing beauty - there we were - caught in all our actions! They captured some of the best moments of our young lives through the lens of a camera.

Pictures help us relive special moments in time.

My husband and I began our chronicle of our daughter Maryah's life with photos of her a day after her birth. We emailed and snail mailed pictures of her to friends and family across the country. As parents we take hundreds of pictures of our children to mark their growth from birth until they get tired of posing. Each age brings with it a different perspective and position in life. Each picture documents milestones and hurdles.

It is our hope that your CRLS yearbook is a chronicle of special moments that highlight your highschool involvement. In time you will be able to look back and relive - through these pictures - these years and remember things that you didn't before.

My special Thanks to you for all that you have contributed to this community of learners. I also extend a special thanks to your families and friends for supporting your academic and social growth. May you continue to strive, achieve and have a life worthy and full of pictures!

May you have much love and success in your lives.

Dr. Sybil N. Knight, Principal

Ms. Hunter

"Education is our passport to the future, for tomorrow belongs to the people who prepare for it today."

Malcolm X

Class of 2004 – you have completed your remarkable journey through high school. I hope that that you have enjoyed your four years at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School and that you have learned well the academic, civic, and social lessons given here. You are prepared to chart a new course and explore the world beyond high school.

Many of you have chosen to include your "Baby Pictures" in the yearbook.Dr. Knight and I have decided to join you and place our baby pictures in your yearbook too! The baby pictures are important – not only because you're an incredibly cute bunch of people – but also, as you end your high school journey, it's important to look back to see where you've come from and how far you've traveled.

The stamps in your passports are not the same. Some of you have been together in the Cambridge since the earliest stages of this educational journey. Others have joined the Class of 2004 along the way. Now as you leave the safe port of CRLS, we hope that you take with you a few 'souvenirs' from your high school experience:

- a deep love of learning and a desire to continue to develop as a learner;
- a respect for the diversity of life and the living;
- a desire to help others and to give back to your family and community; and
- a sturdy mast on which to hoist your dreams for your future.

Don't end your educational journey at high school!
Continue to use your educational passport!

Let it open doors and broaden the horizon of your future choices! Good luck, Class of 2004. Travel well and safely until we meet again.

Love and all the success in the world,
Ms. Caroline Hunter
Assistant Principal

Junior Prom

Definitely a night to remember.....
The Junior Prom was held on May 17, 2003 at the Double Tree Guest Suites in Cambridge, Ma. Some people attended solo, with dates, or with friends, to celebrate with their fellow classmates. The prom King and Queen of the night were Gregory Sparks and Zenith Hamilton. This is a precious moment when we were all together to dance the night away.

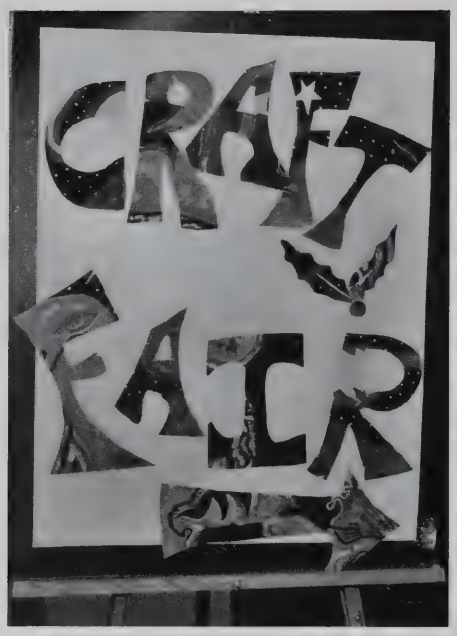
UNIQUE

TWYLA EVERETT, MELISSA LEE, ANNERY MIRANDA, LAYA SHABBAZ

It all started their freshman year of High School. Its kind of funny how they met. Melissa and Annery had grown up together and were best friends. 'Coincidentally' Twyla and Laya were too. Although they were very different in style one thing brought them together: their passion for singing and their goofiness. The first day they were all together they broke out singing Amazing Grace in four part harmony and decided that this was too good to let go of. As a result, they started the well known quartet, Unique. Soon they found themselves performing at school assemblies, senior centers, conferences, the inauguration of the School Committee, the 2003 Pep Rally and the Strand Theatre. Each performance was preceded with a prayer time, knowing that their talents came from God, who gave their songs meaning. They were always confident and alive. Their passion was evident through their harmonic voices, and when all four of them were brought together, they sounded like one person. Each song was slightly altered so that it would be their own- so that it would be unique. What occurred behind the scenes played a key role in what they have become musically. You could always find them running around looking for each other to practice or to make it in time for a show. This gave them a sense of commitment. Even off the stage they had hysterical fun. Melissa was the crazy one who made the funny faces that distracted you to the point of making you laugh. Annery was always referring to someone by a strange name (i.e. Billy Bob) and doing ballet twirls. Laya always made up hilarious raps that started our rambunctious behavior in the first place. And Twyla was always making up a crazy lookin dance that nobody else could do. Soon, the basement bathroom became their studio and practicing room. 'We would sit in the basement for hours vibing off of each other, harmonizing until we had a complete song' said group member, Twyla Everett. Their experience in this High School was truly like a movie, as they would often say.

'With God's help, confidence in ourselves and support from our family members and teachers we were able to accomplish all of these things. We are blessed with talent and blessed to have each other as life long friends to share this musical experience with. Special thanks to everyone for believing in us and helping to make our dreams come true. For helping us be UNIQUE.'



The second annual CRLS Arts and Craft Fair was held on December 9, 2003. The CRLS Arts and Crafts Fair is a wonderful opportunity for students and members of the local community of artists to display thier artwork and hand-made products to residents of Cambridge. This year, the fair was greatly successful and hosted a variety of skilled artists and crafters in areas such as ceramics, sculpture, jewelry, baked goods and fine art. Aside from exposing the CRLS and Cambridge communtiy to arts and crafts, a portion of the profits from the crafters benefits the CRLS Arts Department. This year's proceeds were used mainly towards purchasing a new pottery kiln and to fund a mural designed by the Senior Art Portfolio class.

Stars

Student Teaching and Advocating respect (STARs) is a course taught at CRLS titled "Leadership and Community Action." It is designed to provide students with a comfortable arena to discuss, debate, and honestly confront contemporary issues affecting their lives. Such topics may include relationship violence, sexual harassment, domestic abuse, HIV/AIDs, and substance abuse. Students receive skill training that enhance their leadership development and prepare them as Peer Educators. After training sessions, each STAR is responsible for teaching curricula to younger students. STARs also organizes the annual "Seeking Solutions" Violence Prevention conference with assemblies and workshops opened to the entire school community on a variety of topics.

Youth Peace & Justice Corp

PJC is 31 CRLS Youth (with additional college and adult staff) building community with one another to promote individual and collective social change.
We meet every week for workshops, discussion groups, guest speakers, panel and group exercises, to see ourselves and the world around us. We look deeply at the realities of racism, sexism and other forms of systemic violence. We are also connecting the issues of injustice, which we experience personally with local, national and even global issues of injustice.

PJC represents – We are from all of Cambridge's neighborhoods from the Port to NC. We are first generation from the Caribbean, Haiti, Vietnam, and Central America and second generation and third and more..... We are African American, Bi-racial, Latino/a, Irish and Italian. We are human beings.

"L'union fait la Force" (In unity, there is strength).
Haitian Proverb

True peace is not the absence of conflict. True peace is the presence of justice". MLK Jr.

Black Student Union

The BSU organizes students to promote understanding and appreciation of African-American culture and heritage, and the diversity within the CRLS school community. Activities include: Annual Kwanzaa, Black History Month, and participation in the CRLS MLK Jr. assemblies. The club's slogan is "BSU – A Body that builds pride". BSU has teamed up with the Black College Tour (BCT) to provide opportunities for African-American and Minority youth to visit and learn about historically black colleges, while developing leadership skills and making new friends.

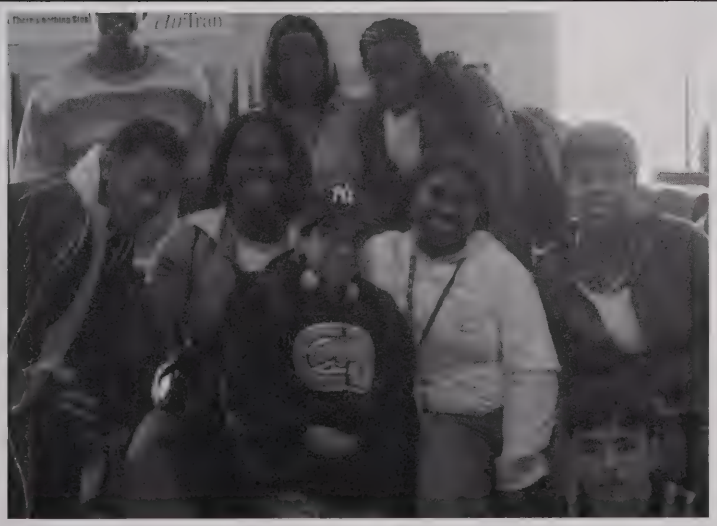
(Arrow points to)

Katrina Marsan, a student at Cambridge Rindge & Latin High School in Cambridge, MA took part in the February 21-28, 2004 Presidential Classroom Global Business & Public Policy Program in Washington, D.C.

Katrina and more than 200 other high school juniors and seniors from 38 states, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Honduras, Mexico, Bermuda, Canada, South Korea, Romania, and Ukraine explored the federal government at work. They spent a week examining the role of the federal government in regulating industry and simulating economic growth.

Minority Student Achievement Network



In the fall of 2003, the Minority Student Achievement Network (MSAN) held its forth annual leadership conference for students of color from network high schools. At the conference, students had "courageous conversations" about race and also shared with other student participants their district's minority student achievement plan. When students returned to their respective districts following the conference, they reported on their conference experiences and shared their ideas and feedback regarding their district's achievement plan.

"To believe in a child is to believe in the future. Through their aspirations they will save the world. With their combined knowledge the turbulent seas of hate and injustice will be calmed. They will champion the causes of Life's underdog's, forging a society without class discrimination. They will supply humanity with music and beauty as it has never known. They will endure. Towards these end I pledge my life's work. I will supply the children with tools and knowledge to overcome the obstacles. I will pass on the wisdom of my years and temper it with patience. I shall impact in each child the desire to fulfill his or her dream."

Falcon's Football

The community of Cambridge would like to congratulate all of the players and coaching staff on a wonderful and exciting season.

Head Coach Kwame Dixon had the Falcon football team playing expectional football throughout the entire season. We would like to congratulate Coach Dixon on his pretigious award of being named New England's coach of the week by our own Super Bowl Champions " New England Patriots". He was an easy target for this honor, for not only his well-organized football tactics on the field, but also in what he does off the field. Every Tuesday and Thursday you can find Coach Dixon in a classroom where he is delveloping his students' minds in the classrooom through his very own Tutoring Plus Program.

Once again, we would like to congratulate the Falcon's Team on a tremedous season and hope for many more to come.

Capturing the Season

Coach McKenzie announced at the start of the season that the thing only that could hinder the success of the CRLS boys Varsity Soccer team was discipline. This proved to be true in a turbulent first season for McKenzie. Cambridge showed that could compete with the best GBL on some days and fell to weak teams on other . The team never found the consistency that coach asked for, but still improved from last year's record and at times displayed their full capabilities. At full strength and with the right mind set Cambridge was a force to be reckon with, and the future looks even brighter. Special recognition was given to Eastern Massachusetts All-Star Wenderson Dos Reis, and GBL All-Stars Paul Demanche, Tom Drisdell, and Zelalem Testafun.

Capturing the Season:

With every game the She-Falcons show improvement and made major steps forward. They improved their skills and began to work well as a team both on a off the ice. Though the team and new coach were faced with injuries, illness, well as, having a wide range of ability, She-Falcons level of play increased phenomally, and they never lost their morale. Many of the She-Falcons recei at least 1 point during the season. Brianna Yearwood, Julia Ballard, Min Mahon received their first career goals, while Helen Sullivan recieved, Hattrick against Masco.

Capturing the Season:

After losing our coach and an extremley strong core of seniors, the swim team's future looked bleak. However, with the arrival of Coach Rob Winograd and a large group of sophomores the team kept its momemtum from previous years. New and old swimmers have contributed greatly to the success of the team, along with the incredible spirit of its members. Our divers and swimmers have accomplished much this season. The GBL All-Stars are Chris Hansnan, Lucas Sanoff, Sam Cohen, and Gordon Walker.

Ford's Jersey Retired

By Renaldo Mili
Register Forum Staff

On December 23, 2003, former CRLS boys basketball player Louis Ford Jr.'s number was retired. Ford's number 10 joins Patrick Ewing's and Rumeal Robinson's numbers that hang on the wall of the Albert C. Coccoluto Gymnasium.

Ford was the exceptional guard, standing at only five feet three inches, who led the team to a record of 83-10 over four years to the 2001 State Championship. Individually, Louie accomplished many outstanding feats as a high school athlete. Some of his accomplishments range from being a four-year varsity starter, a two-year team captain, the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association 2001 Player of the Year, a three-time Greater Boston League All Star, and receiving the prestigious McDonalds High School All-American Honor Roll mention among others. He also scored a career 1004 points, joining him with Ewing, Robinson, Donnie Joseph, Karl Hobbes, and Lance Dottin as 1000+ point scorers. He also had over 500 assists.

Ford now plays at Howard University in Washington, D.C. There he has already proved to be a leader and was voted team captain as a sophomore.

Darden's 1,000 Points

Lady Falcons ready for season

By Dan Eisner
CORRESPONDENT

Last season, Cambridge Rindge and Latin girls basketball coach Leslie Davis and Stephanie Darden attended the Connn-Boston College women's basketball game at which the Eagles' Brianne Stephenson scored her 1,000th career point.

This prompted Davis to ask Darden if she was curious about how close she was to that milestone. Darden curtly responded, "No." That was the end of the conversation. Darden, who led the Falcons to a state championship as a sophomore in 2002, couldn't have been less interested.

"She's the most humble kid who I have ever known who has had this much talent," Davis said. "I would think that most kids that age would be dying to know. But she is that selfless."

Here's the answer, whether she wants to know or not: 21 points.

Considering Darden averaged 20 points per game last season, it is extremely possible she could reach the 1,000-point plateau during Tuesday's season opener at Medford High School. If it doesn't happen that evening, it will likely occur during the home opener against Arlington High School next Friday.

Those closely involved with the Cambridge girls basketball community believe she will be the first player in school history to accomplish that feat.

"We'll all be more excited than she will be," Davis said. "I think that deep down, it'll mean a lot to her in 10 years. But right now, I don't think it'll mean much to her. For Stephanie, it'll be just another point."

Darden will be the hub around which the team revolves. With Big East and Atlantic-10 schools expressing interest in Darden, she is arguably the best returning player in the Greater Boston League.

In order for the Falcons to succeed in the league, Darden will obviously need help from her teammates. With all but two players returning from last year's team, that shouldn't be a problem.

Senior forward/center Tyandra Price should be a strong presence near the basket.

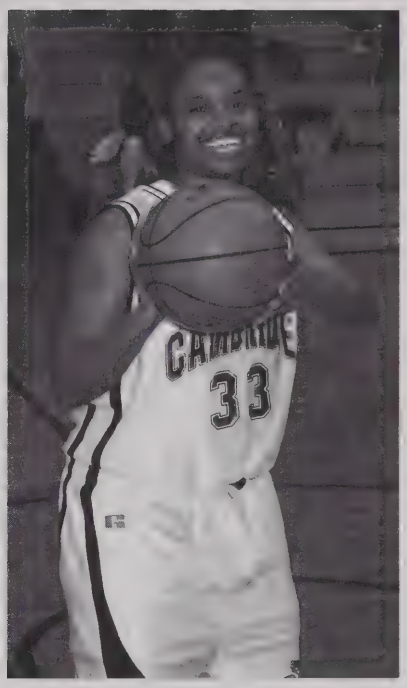
"We're expecting huge things out of her," Davis said. "She's working hard on her game. She's improved. She's faster than lightning. We plan to use her in the press to create offensive opportunities for her and the team. We need and expect more out of her this year."

Senior Talia Dottin will once again run the point, but is expected to provide more scoring this season. Senior forward Makyshia Brathwaite should contribute with solid defense and strong rebounding.

Despite being a freshman, guard Kyara Weekes will see significant playing time this season. Davis is so impressed with her talent that she says she expects to see a "passing of the torch" from Darden to Weekes.

"She has played a lot of basketball and fundamentally has a nice base to work with," Davis said. "Once she gets this system down, we're expecting things from her."

Asked if she thought she was putting was too much pressure on such a young player, Davis said, "This kid can handle the pressure."



1,000 points

Stephanie Darden accomplished something that very few girls at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School have as basketball players — she reached the 1,000-point mark. Darden hit seven points early in the first half and missed the next seven shots and two free-throw attempts. During the halftime break, Darden joked, "I missed those shots because I wanted everyone to stick around for the second half." Less than one minute into the second half, Darden scored a basket, and earned her way into the Cambridge sports history books.

Girls Athlete of the Month: Stephanie Darden

Stephanie Darden, a senior in School 1 on the Lady Falcons basketball team, secured her place in the record books earlier this season when she scored her 1,000th career point in a game against Arlington. Darden, a guard, led Cambridge to a state title her sophomore year and has been a Boston Globe All-Scholastic twice already. This season, she has guided the girls basketball team to an 11-5 record while averaging 16.8 points per game, the second highest in the league. As tournament season rolls around, Darden will have one final opportunity to again leave her mark on Cambridge basketball history.

The Colors of CRLS

They say that colors are supposed to describe the invisible that the language of colors can describe how we are and what we are. As I walk through the halls of Cambridge Rindge and Latin I see the many different colors of the world blend together, and yet each shade remains distinct. I see the red of the excitement of team players, I see the orange of the warmth of teachers, I see the yellow of the wisdom students acquire each day in class. Never have I seen so much diversity in one school, one community.

So many different personalities embody this school that instructs the bright children of the liberal city of Cambridge. While throughout the world unity is established by common languages and cultures, here unity is achieved through a common sense of being. The harmony in this school is both commendable and extremely rare. It is a privilege to be a part of the Cambridge Rindge and Latin school community. Many school's across the country still self-segregate themselves, but here we are truly a tossed salad.

Cambridge Rindge and Latin have stood through many generations, reaching even before World War 1. Cambridge Rindge and Latin have given this country, and this world, soldiers, heroes, heroines, leaders, actors, team players, and role models. Now, another year has passed, and once again this great school sends off another class of aspiring students who will shape history. So to this school and its faculty, thank you. To its students, and my fellow classmates I wish you good luck and farewell.

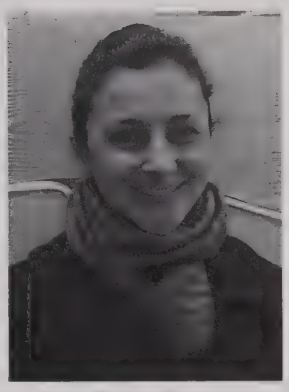
STUDENTS WIN NASA NATIONAL COMPETITION
WILL FLY EXPERIMENT ON SPACE SHUTTLE

Students at the Rindge School of Technical Arts at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School Win in Space Flight Opportunities Competition



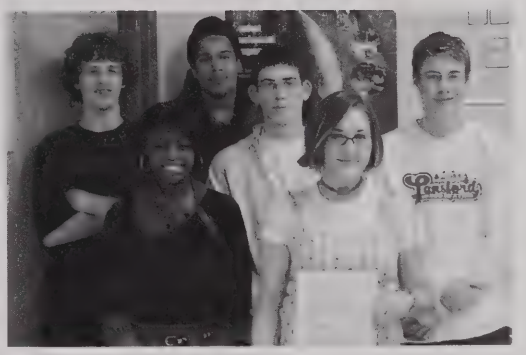
CAMBRIDGE, MA, February 9, 2004- Cambridge Rindge and Latin School (CRLS) today announced that students in Dr. Angela Zapata's Biotechnology class at the Rindge School of Technical Arts have been selected in the NASA Student Involvement Program's (NSIP) 2003-2004 competition to fly their team's experiment aboard the Space Shuttle. Jeffrey DeMartin (05), Connor Epsteinkraus (06), Anthony Lewis (04), Christopher Nelson (04), Jessica Scotland (06), and Kaitlyn Webster (04) are being honored for their work on The Effect of Cosmic Radiation on the Electrical Properties of Electrophoretic Buffers. Their experiment will measure changes in the conductivity of electrolytic buffers as they get exposed to cosmic radiation during a Space Shuttle flight.

NSIP is NASA's national program of competitions for students in kindergarten-grade 12. Cambridge Rindge and Latin's team is one of only four teams selected to prepare their Shuttle experiment during the 2004 SEM Student Flight Week.

Last year, over 3,500 students submitted more than 1,200 research projects for the six NSIP competitions which are Space Flight Opportunities, Design a Mission to Mars, My Planet Earth, Watching Earth Change, Science and Technology Journalism, and Aerospace Technology Engineering Challenge.

Student entries are judged at NASA Centers by teams of scientists, engineers, educators, journalists, and other professionals. The team (1 teacher and up to 4 students) will travel to the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center's Wallops Flight Facility in Virginia in June to prepare their experiment to fly aboard the Space Shuttle."

NASA Headquarters will officially announce the names of all NSIP winners in mid-April and post the names on the NSIP website (http://www.nasa.gov/education/nsip).



Mass. House Closes

After 3 decades, pizza house closes

Pizza guru Chris Demis joked amiably with clients last week, shaking hands and bidding his regulars farewell.

"It's weird when you see all the good customers. It's sad to say goodbye to everyone," he said. "It's almost like leaving college, when you think I'm never going to see these people again."

Mass. House of Pizza, the restaurant opened across the street from Rindge and Latin School by Demis's father 30 years ago, served its last pie yesterday.

Demis, who lives in Watertown with his wife, Susanne, and dog Feta, started working at the pizza shop when he was 13 and took over the business when his father retired in 1990.

In 1973, the restaurant was one of several "House of Pizzas" opened throughout Massachusetts by Greek families who prided themselves on pizzas with rising dough and cheddar cheese.

"There was one in every town," he said. Until yesterday, Demis used the same recipe for pizza crusts that helped make his dad's shop so successful – especially among the high school students in search of a cheap lunch.

Listening to the kids tease each other and throw around the newest slang is Demis's favorite part of his job.

For regular customers, the loss is both culinary and personal.
